Recent Work

I'm delighted to tell you that having received a Fellowship from the Worshipful Company of Painter-Stainers, I have been able return to the Heatherley School of Fine Art, to continue developing my own visual language.

As you will know, my work often combines elements of figuration and abstraction, but I am discovering that the representation elements don't always provide sufficient expression. So, I have embarked on an investigation into where literal resemblance moves into abstraction to express deeper subjective experiences, and subjects. I hope to have some new work to show you soon!

These two recent paintings of interiors begin this investigation and are both available framed.

Commissions and Teaching

I'm continuing to take commissions and am also excited to have started teaching from my studio. I'm offering individual and small group painting classes, so if you'd like more details, please email me at sallyminnsart@gmail.com

"In just a few hours of having Sally as my tutor, I found the clarity I've sought for years. Attentive, supportive, and helpful teaching. Sally also has an energy that helps drive your passion, in turn leaving you so confident" J, Nov 2021.

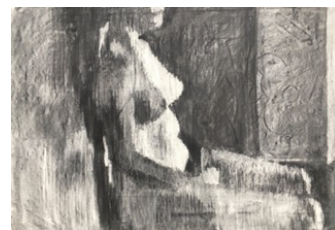

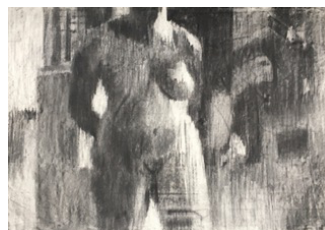

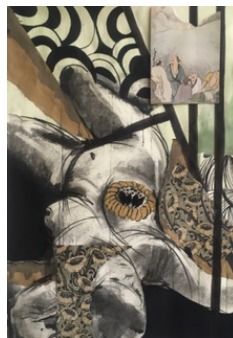

Recent Sales

Two of my larger paintings have recently found new homes and I hope their new owners will enjoy them. If you're interested in any of my work, it may be possible to try a piece in your home before deciding whether to buy it, so please contact me for details.

Works on paper

As part of my painting process, I have recently been working with collage and now have some framed A1 collages and A1 original charcoal drawings available. A2 and A3 Limited Edition Prints of the drawings are also available.

Limited Edition Prints

I appreciate that it isn't always easy to accommodate one of my larger paintings at home, so I now have Limited Edition Prints of these paintings and drawings available. Printed on Canson Fine Art Paper – Edition Etching 310gsm – Matt Finish they can be ordered in A2, A3 and equivalent sizes, directly from my studio. Please email for more details.

Collaboration – Art Meets Workwear

You may remember some of the jackets I previously customised. I'm pleased to say, my collaboration with the sustainable fashion brand, the French Workwear Company continues. New hand-painted jackets are coming soon and available directly from FW online or in their Stoke Newington pop up shop from 11th November – 19th December. <https://www.frenchworkwear.com/artwork-wear>

And finally... Upcoming Events!
